

Oregon Donation Land Files, 1851-1903

United States “How to” Guide, Intermediate Level: Instruction

January 2019

GOAL

This guide will teach you how to locate your ancestor in the Oregon Land Claim index and find the original land claim application file images.

INTRODUCTION

In 1850 the United States enacted the “The Donation Land Claim Act of 1850,” opening the way for homestead settlements in the Oregon Territory. At this time the Oregon Territory included present-day states of Oregon, Washington, Idaho and part of Wyoming.

While the only requirement was to cultivate and improve the land for four years, the amount of land and price varied as follows:

Early - 1 December 1850

- The land cost nothing.
- Single men could receive 320 acres of land.
- Married couples could receive 640 acres ($\frac{1}{2}$ in the name of the man and $\frac{1}{2}$ in the name of the woman).

1 December 1850 – 1853

- The land cost nothing.
- Single men could receive 160 acres of land.
- Married couples could receive 320 acres ($\frac{1}{2}$ in the name of the man and $\frac{1}{2}$ in the name of the woman).

1854-1855

- The land cost $1.25 per acre.
- Single men could receive 160 acres of land.
- Married couples could receive 320 acres ($\frac{1}{2}$ in the name of the man and $\frac{1}{2}$ in the name of the woman).

If you have ancestors who settled in the Oregon Territory during this time, the Donation Land Claim application files may hold genealogically rich information about your family. The records may contain birth, marriage, citizenship, migration or other valuable information.

HOW TO

The original land claim applications are filed by land office and then by certificate number. To identify if your ancestor filed a claim you will need to know the land office and the certificate number. You find the land office and certificate number by searching one of the following indexes:

- Bureau of Land Management General Land Office <https://glorerecords.blm.gov/default.aspx>
- Genealogical Forum of Oregon <https://gfo.org/>

The Bureau of Land Management General Land Office Records only contain the patents. The Genealogical Forum of Oregon contains both patents and cancelled land claims, the documents created when a land claim was not completed.

We will practice how to use both indexes.

Accessing the Index at the Bureau of Land Management General Land Office

1. Go to the Bureau of Land Management General Land Office, found at: <https://glorerecords.blm.gov>
2. In the green navigation bar click Search Documents.
3. Follow the instructions on the right side of the Location and Names entry boxes. Filter the location by the state of Oregon and enter your ancestor's first and last name.
4. In the Miscellaneous entry box, click the drop-down menu for Authority. Select Oregon-Donation Act (grant) [Sep 27, 1850] (99 Stat. 496).
5. Click Search Patents.
6. From the list of results, click the number in the Accession column to view the entry for your ancestor. You will notice that many of the patents have dates that are later than 1855. These are the dates the final papers were filed, not the date of the application.
7. A new page will open. Under Miscellaneous Information you will find the land office and authority. Under Document Numbers you will find the certificate number, called Document Nr.
8. Record the land office and the certificate number. You will need this information to locate the original Donation Land Claim application file. Proceed to Finding the Original Land Claim Application File, located later in this guide.

Accessing the Index at the Genealogical Forum of Oregon

1. Go to Genealogical Forum of Oregon <https://gfo.org/>

2. From the home page hover the mouse over Resources. From the drop-down menu, hover the mouse over Indexes, then Pioneers and Early Oregonians, then click Donation Land Claims.
3. Follow the website's instructions for choosing the correct set of index pages for your ancestor's surname. Click the name that begins the collection that includes the surname. When the page opens, scroll down until you locate your ancestor.
4. When you find your ancestor, record the land office and the certificate number. Oregon had four land offices and the Genealogical Forum of Oregon uses the following abbreviations:
 - OC – Oregon City
 - RB – Roseburg
 - TD – The Dalles
 - LG – La Grande

Once you have the land office and certificate number you are ready to locate the original land claim file application.

Finding the Original Land Claim Application File

1. Go to FamilySearch, at: <https://www.familysearch.org/> Log into your FamilySearch account.
2. Hover the mouse over Search, then click Catalog.
3. From the Catalog search page choose Titles and enter Oregon and Washington donation land files, 1851-1903. The author is U.S. General Land Office.
4. Read the Notes section to learn how the collection is organized.
5. Scroll down to the Film/Digital Notes section.
6. The list of microfilms is organized by land office, beginning with the Oregon City land office. Either scroll down until you see a film that contains the name of the land office where the claim was filed or hold down the control and F keys (command and F when using a Mac) to activate the find feature. Search for the name of the land office to find the film that begins the collection of land claims for that office.
7. Underneath the film that contains the name of the land office will be a collection of films, organized by donation certificate number. Scroll down to the film that contains the certificate number you wish to view.
8. When you find the correct record set click the digital camera icon to the right of the collection name to open the digitized microfilm.
9. Browse through the images to find your ancestor's certificate number. Each packet begins with the image of a small packet folder; these can help you locate the file more quickly. An individual file may include several documents across a range of images. You will want to view the entire file.
